The block has fifty feet frontage, next the Windsor livery, and is occupied at present by P. Urquhart, tailor the Grill restaurant and by Vernon Barford's studio. The block was built this spring. Mr. Grieson has not yet decided what he will do with the property. Regarding the rumor abroad to the effect that he purposed building a hotel there, he said that such was not his intention.

WHEAT CUTTING AT DOMINION CITY.

Dominion City, Man., July 30.—R. E. Brown, of section 35, township 3, range 4, northeast of here, started cutting a fine field of wheat today.

L. D. Smith, of Arnaud, Man., a real estate dealer, came into the city yesterday, and reports that while driving six miles east of Arnaud, his party saw wheat to the shock that had been cut on July 28. This was on the farm of R. E. Brown. Nearly all Mr. Brown's wheat is ripe, and will give a splendid yield and a good sample. Crops around Arnaud are magnificent, and will go in many cases from thirty to forty bushels per acre.

WILL MAKE NO DISTINCTION

Winston Spencer Churchill, parliamentary secretary of the colonial office, outlined in the British House of Commons the government's proposal regarding the constitution to be submitted to the Transvaal. The guiding principle, he said, would be not to make any distinction between British and Boer, but to extend to both the fullest privileges of British citizenship. All males twenty-one years old who had resided in the Transvaal for six months would be entitled to vote. It is the intention to give the Rand thirty-two seats, Pretoria six, Krugersdorp one, and the rest of the Transvaal 50 seats. The members of parliament will be elected for five years and will be paid for their services. For the first parliament there will be a second chamber of fifteen members nominated by the crown. During the first session arrangements will be made for an elective second chamber. The constitution will contain a clause abrogating the Chinese labor ordinance after a reasonable time. The receiving of Chinese labor will cease entirely on November 1.

WAS IMPOSED

CAPITALS HELD A SMOKER.

Last evening an enjoyable smoker was given by the Edmonton base ball team at the Brunswick hotel on Second street, under the patronage of Dr. Till, the La Palma cigar Co., and Brunswick hotel staff. George Cormick was in the chair. The program opened with two selections by Plover-right's Mandolin Orchestra, followed by a comic song by George Cormick. Selection by the orchestra and an old time favorite "Sally in our Alley" by Frank Duff were enjoyed. Another selection by the orchestra was followed by a song by George Cormick, after which refreshments were passed around. "Wild Bill" Stetson attacked the company with several base ball yams. A recitation was given entitled "Kissing Cup" by Frank Duff, after which the orchestra played several pieces, with a singing chorus in which all joined. Comic songs by George Cormick and a duet "On de Ole Banjo", by George Cormick and Frank Duff. The chairman then called on "Wild Bill" for more yams. Somebody in the crowd called for a comic song. George Cormick obliged them with a splendid imitation of the well known Londoner and encored with "Oh Don't stick it Out like That". A comic recitation was given by "Wild Bill". Several toasts were given. When the orchestra struck up Yankee Doodle and Rule Britannia the crowd dispersed.

ONE ON VAN HORNE

D. C. Cortin, of the Spokane International railway, was telling railway stories to the Spokanean-Review. Here is one on Sir William Van Horne: "Back in Montreal I was confiding with President Shaughnessy of the Canadian Pacific, over his similar labor shortage. Mr. Shaughnessy was laughing over the experience of Sir William Van Horne, former president of the Canadian Pacific, who is building railways in Cuba. Sir William came to Montreal several months ago with a tale of trouble. Said he: "We are paying our native labor 40 cents a day, which is not bad down there, but they'll work only about four days in the week. Then they drop out of sight, pick up a burr hidden in the brush, and go off to celebrate. However, I've been deciding how to keep them at work. I'll make it worth their while. I'll double all their pay and give them 80 cents a day apiece." "Back to Cuba went Sir William to carry out his philanthropic and benevolent labor reform. A few weeks later he returned. "How did your plan work?" asked Mr. Shaughnessy. "Rotten," replied Sir William, ruefully. "They used to work about four days a week. Since I doubled the pay they only work two days."

HAS BEGUN

Reported That a Farmer at Star Has Begun Wheat Harvest.

It is reported from Star that Mr. J. D. Campbell a well known farmer in that district, has begun cutting a field of fall wheat. The wheat is said to be in good condition and is estimated to yield fifty bushels per acre. Star is the name of what was formerly known as Beaver Creek settlement, and is about four miles north of Lacombe, a station on the C. N. R. about forty miles east of Edmonton. Mr. Campbell is one of the oldest settlers in that district.

EAST WILL BECOME FRINGE OF WEST

Winnipeg, Man., July 24.—Hon. J. W. Longley, of Halifax, ex-Attorney-General of Nova Scotia, was one of the speakers at the opening of the Industrial Exhibition here yesterday. Judge Longley is in the west for the purpose of gathering data for the story of Canada which he is writing. That dramatic period in which Louis Riel was such a conspicuous figure will receive special attention. Justice Longley recognizes the strong personal endowments of the unfortunate insurrectionist. He will devote considerable time to St. Boniface, Quebec, facts and details concerning the famous Metis leader. The history, when completed will be very comprehensive, embracing several large volumes. The first volume will be ready for publication in about a year. "Development of Western Canada is the great feature of the present from a Dominion standpoint," said the historian. "Winnipeg and Manitoba have already assumed a most prominent position in the Nation's life. Saskatchewan and Alberta will each in time overshadow Ontario. The Maritime Provinces will eventually become but a fringe of the great agricultural and industrial portion of the country."

OVERLAND FROM COLORADO

Settlers Reach the City by Trail After a Three Months' Trip.

"Back Home Again." These were the words of G. W. Coleman, who has travelled with his team and dog all the way from Greeley, Colorado. Mr. Coleman is a member of a party that arrived in the city today from the United States. The other members are Mr. H. Olson with his wife, and two children, and Mr. R. Olson, of Bozeman, Montana. Mr. Coleman left his home in the state of Colorado three months ago, and travelled alone with his dog until he came up with the Olson family.

During his trip the dog killed ninety-three coyotes and gray wolves. Mr. Coleman is a rancher and to the Bulletin stated that this country resembled Iowa, where he spent his boyhood. All the ranching land was taken up in his state, and ranchers were practically driven out. When he gets settled in this country his family will follow him. He intends having a look at the Peace River country.

Mr. Olson has a brother-in-law on the St. Albert road, Mr. E. V. Ross. His only anxiety was about the probability of having enough settlers in the district to form a school section, but he was soon assured he need not fear on that score.

The whole party drew up in front of Stetson Smith's and a photograph was taken.

Each wagon carried a stove, a bed and a well stocked larder and each one said they heartily enjoyed the trip.

STONE CRUSHING PLANT.

The stone crushing and gravel washing plant of the Huff Grading Co., began operations this morning. The plant is situated on the river bank near the big steel bridge. The gravel is hoisted by means of a skip and deposited on a heavy steel slide of very fine mesh, where a powerful stream of water plays upon it, and washes away every vestige of earth. The gravel then slides down a chute into the crusher from which it is elevated into a revolving screen and sorted into bins. The screen sorts four sizes, the largest being two inches and the smallest half an inch in diameter. The bins are high enough to allow a team and wagon to drive under and be filled from above. This movement on the part of the company is highly commendable as all the travelling done hitherto has been with an inferior grade due largely to being mixed with mud and large sized stones.

AMERICAN TEAM ARRIVES.

The late train last evening brought in the Anacortas ball team from the south. They put up at the Windsor. Manager White said this morning that his team was in good shape. He says he has an all-round amateur team, almost as strong as anything on the Puget Sound. The team was royally entertained in Calgary, and are delighted with the climate and country. Their line-up and batting order for this evening will be: Whittenore, a. s. White, 2nd; Speddie, catcher; Cayen, 1st Black right field; McGinnis, 3rd; Reeves, left field; Homer, center field; Kinneer, pitcher.

ANACORTAS DIDN'T COME.

The Anacortas ball team missed the train at Calgary yesterday morning, and did not arrive in time for the game last night. They pulled in on the late train last evening, however, and will play this evening with the Capitals. There will be a game tomorrow evening and one on Monday evening.

DESPERATE FIGHTING CONTINUES
IN THE FORTRESS OF SVEABORGGIBSON & CO.'S
ANNUAL DINNER

Real Estate Firm Entertained Friends at the Richelieu Last Evening.

The third annual dinner of C. H. Gibson and Co., was held at the Richelieu hotel last evening. The dinner was upon the same scale as Mr. Gibson does everything and was as large in its hospitality as he is energetic in his business. Covers were laid for twenty-five and almost every chair was filled. The tables were very tastefully decorated with flowers and fruit, the latter serving the double purpose of pleasing the eye and later on the palate. The menu was excellent. If Mr. Gibson is not himself an epicure he knows well how to appeal to those who are. "North Jasper Place chicken" occupied a prominent place on the bill of fare and was almost as satisfying as the purchase of a few loaves in that western suburb. "Alberta pudding with North Dakota sauce" came later and was as good as its name.

The room was tastefully decorated and in large letters the following striking statements appeared upon the walls:—"Edmonton means Push, Progress and Prosperity." "Edmonton a 'Railroad Centre.'" "Edmonton the Capital of Canada's Banner Province." and "Edmonton a Conning Manufacturing seat."

Messrs. Silas and Harper furnished the music and as both are adept performers on the piano their entertainment was much enjoyed.

When justice was done to the supper Mr. Gibson proposed the health of the King which was heartily drunk and every one joined in the National Anthem. Mr. Gibson then called on Duncan Marshall to propose the toast "Our Great Inheritance, Canada." This toast was proposed with a few remarks upon our splendid country and called upon Honorable Senator Roy to reply. In rising to respond he said he appreciated the honor of applying to this toast. He referred to the manner in which all nationalities were working to make Canada a great nation. He referred to the general prosperity of Canada, and he said that today all eyes were on Alberta. He congratulated the host upon his generous hospitality.

The next toast was "The Banner Province—Alberta," proposed by Mr. Dietman in a few appropriate references to this splendid province, and responded to by Mr. Gibson in a fitting manner.

"Our Guests" was proposed by Mr. Gibson in his usual eloquent fashion. Mr. Leche also spoke and Mr. Wilfrid Gariepy replied.

"Edmonton the Capital" was proposed by Mr. J. H. Dawson who spoke enthusiastically of the prospects of this splendid city. To Alderman Picard fell the duty of responding.

The toast to "Our Host" was heartily drunk and three rousing cheers and a tiger given for Mr. Gibson.

The press and musical entertainment were royally treated and everybody went home feeling that few citizens of Edmonton can equal Mr. Gibson as a royal entertainer.

Mystery Surrounds the Situation at Kronstadt---Mutiny
Reported From Garrisons in all Parts of Russia---Gzar Reported to Have Fled From Peterhof

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3.—The latest Helsingfors advices regarding the Sveaborg mutiny are that the forts on two islands are ablaze and the mutineers numbering 3,000 are said to be on the point of surrendering being without food and ammunition.

During the night mutineer sailors, soldiers, sappers and miners seized Fort Constantine but were dislodged and compelled to surrender after heavy fighting with the loyal regiments. Hundreds were killed and many wounded. Some of the mutineers boarded a steamer and escaped.

The interruption of the wires to Kronstadt had led to the gravest fears that there has been recurrence of disorders and that the trouble there is serious. Troops were sent during the night to surround the Kronstadt garrison, but subsequent developments are a mystery. Four mutinous warships from Helsingfors have arrived at Kronstadt. The guns of the fortress are trained upon the vessels but as yet no shot has been fired at the mutineers and it is feared this may mean that the mutineers are in possession of the fortress.

Late despatches also state that fierce fighting is occurring in the streets that the Red Guards have mutinied, killed their officers and unfurled red flags.

Alarming news of an uprising comes from Kostroma, a province in north central Russia, where the peasants have fired the government's forest preserves and an enormous space of woodland is ablaze. More than half the province is covered with forests.

So serious that the governor-general has asked permission to declare a state of siege, threatening to resign unless this privilege is given him.

Reports from Rival and Finland state that there are disorders at both places and that these are spreading rapidly. Advances from Helsingfors indicate that the rebellion in Finland is very much more serious than was indicated in earlier despatches. Fighting is in progress in many places and the rebels in several instances have defeated the government troops and are organizing a Finnish republic.

Advices from Odessa, Sebastopol and Nicolaieff indicate that the "Black hundreds" are inciting the troops and populace to rise against the government.

Proclamations were posted late last night in nearly every municipality in Russia appealing to the people to rise and murder the Jews.

The reported mutiny of garrison at Rerval is now believed much more serious than already indicated. While the regiment of infantry was on parade, Colonel Niboliatich gave a command which was only partially executed. He remonstrated with the major of the second battalion and the latter shot him dead. As though this was a pre-arranged signal all the troops in the front ranks fired at the officers and a scene of carnage unparalleled in Russian military history, followed. At last accounts fighting was still in progress between the mutineers and loyal troops.

From Tiflis comes news that companies of the Samur regiment, commanding the Iron Gate at Derbent, have surrendered and handed over their rifles to the Cossack commander.

The crew of the Cruiser Pamjants in the harbor here mutinied today, and killed the commander and four officers. The battleship Slava has been ordered to sink the mutineers.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3.—It is reported here that the Czar and family have fled from Peterhof to Tsarskoye. Garrisons in the forts at Brest, Litovsk and Vladikavkaz have mutinied and killed their officers and unfurled red flags.

Similar news is arriving from all parts of the empire and indicates that the army and navy are playing the first act in the tragedy. Next it will be the laborers then the peasants. A general strike of laborers is expected.

CUT-WORM RAVAGES

Editor Farmers Advocate:

I enclose a specimen of what I take to be the Red-backed cut-worm which has done considerable damage to wheat on a field which was broken up from timothy and rye grass last year. As this is a thing which strikes at the root of mixed farming and rotation of crops all our leading lights are advocating it is worth the closest study and investigation. I have been following a grass rotation for a good many years and have never seen anything like it in your paper and the Nor' West Farmer at the request of the editors, but not very recently. The first three fields that I broke up this summer in grass for three years have good crops better than summer fallow but since 1931 every crop after soil has been more or less seriously damaged by cut-worms except in 1934 when I plowed a soil field up in the spring and sowed wheat on it, but it was not a good crop. My land is heavy and grows a tough sod which requires breaking the year before it is cropped. In 1931 I wrote to the Central Experimental farm and told them that the cut-worm moth laid its eggs in long grass or weeds the summer before the worms hatched. That did not agree with my case as there was no grass or weeds on the field. It was plowed five or six inches deep in July and disked in the fall and was quite clean. That summer I spoke to Mr. H. Ford about it and he told me if I broke and tacked the land I would not be so likely to get the cut-worms. In 1932 I broke and tacked a field, but the breaking was not very well done. It was done with a gang plow with stubble burners which threw the sod up too rough and the summer being very wet the plough went in too deep in many places and a good deal of grass grew on it, but the cattle were so it all summer and it was well back. In 1933 it was sown with wheat which was damaged by what I judged from Experimental farm reports to be the Red-backed cut-worm, but not so badly as the field in 1931. That summer I spoke to Mr. R. Waugh and he told me that the moth laid their eggs in holes between the sod after the field was plowed, and the way to prevent damage was to work the field down with disks and harrows as fast as plowed. As this seemed to agree with my experience better than the Experimental Farm theory I tried it. Last summer, but the crop is again seriously damaged in many places. This year I am trying to break a field as thin as possible with the intention of having a good crop of timothy and rye grass. I have read the Experimental Farm reports of 1934 and 1935 say about cut-worms but cannot see anything that gives much light on this particular case. I would be very glad to give the grass rotation for it has cost me a good deal to get it working but if there is no way of avoiding this pest I will have to quit growing grass and go back to the old summer fallow. The grass rotations much better in every way if this can be avoided. Can you tell me at what time of the year the moth lays their eggs? From the fact of the field broken in the spring and disked in the fall it would seem that they laid on plowed land although a year later is not conclusive.

Are they more liable to lay in one kind of grass than another? The three fields I cropped which were clear of them in '35, '36 and '39 were all timothy, the ones damaged were a mixture of timothy and rye grass. A neighbor of mine plowed up a field last summer which was part rye grass and part timothy and I can see from a distance that the part that broke is very much greener, but I have not been close enough to examine it. If you care to enquire into this I will be glad to give you any further information or assistance I can. Perhaps it would be better not to publish this until all possible information has been obtained as it will raise a scare against cultivating grass. Virden, Man. CHAS. E. IVENS.

I have read Mr. Ivens' letter on the subject of cut-worms and believe there are some points raised in this letter which will be of interest to many of your readers. The recent and widespread outbreak of cut-worms in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, has rendered the subject one of keen interest at the present time. As yet in such cases, although many have written for advice, very few have taken the small amount of trouble to send specimens for examination. As a consequence only general answers can be made in most cases. Those who have sent specimens have been provided with exact and definite instructions as to the time when the insects pass through their various stages. This year some farmers in Alberta have reason their grain even twice in some instances and have lost every bit of it, because they did not know the time when the cut-worms would come to full growth and disappear. Others have waited a week or two and will at any rate get good crops of green feed instead of a crop of weeds or nothing at all. There are over 300 different kinds of moths in North America, the caterpillars of which are called cut-worms, and which carry enough in their habits to make it easy for a farmer to know exactly what enemy he is dealing with. In answer to one of Mr. Ivens' questions, eggs of any of these different moths according to their species and their habits may be expected to be laid at any time when the moths are seen, and the different kind of cut-worm moths appear in the west from July to frost and there appear in spring and lay their eggs at that time. The Red-backed cut-worm, as far as known from the only exact observation on the subject, the species, hatches from the eggs in spring a female moth which is full grown towards the end of June and the moths appeared in August and this is the record which has been referred to in the Experimental Farm report, but there is no theory about it. It was an observation of one particular species of moth and is not a generalization which may be applied to hundreds of others. I know of no branch of farming which will pay farmers better than to learn accurately a little more about the insect enemies which visit their fields, and destroy so much of their crops. This, however, is not to be done by asking other people and thinking that they will use their eyes, observing for themselves and then doing the thinking. Many of my correspondents in the west this year are becoming acutely of the caterpillars which have devastated their crops and are watching to see when these changes to moths; these moths look like, and then this is the important point, at what time these moths occur naturally in their district. The best remedy for any insect is only learnt with a good deal of trouble and study. The first step is the eggs are laid, what the caterpillars feed upon, and the time when several years, to stop feeding. It must always be remembered that with cut-worms, there are a great many different kinds, that these very much in habits and in the plants they will attack. As an instance, Mr. Ivens speaks of finding his wheat injured in 1933 by the Red-backed cut-worm compares that outbreak as to causes with crops injured by the Red-backed cut-worm in other years. As a matter of fact these insects are quite unlike in their habits. The Glassy cut-worm moth lays her eggs in grass lands and the caterpillars feed beneath the ground, almost, if not entirely, on the roots of grasses, consequently if this insect is abundant in a locality, when the soil is plowed down there is danger of the caterpillars attacking the crop sown if it is a grass, such as the small grains. The Red-backed cut-worm on the other hand I have never found feeding naturally on grasses, nor do I believe that the eggs are laid on grass lands; but they are laid sometimes, as I have seen on summer fallows which have not been kept clean in the autumn but which are, as is nearly always the case in the west, I know this, not only from my own observations but as testified to by nearly every farmer I have been able to discuss the matter with grown up with many quarters and many other weeds which have formed an attraction to the female moths to lay their eggs during the month of August and September. The only agricultural remedy that I know of to prevent cut-worms from increasing and being, such a pest as they have been this year, is to keep all summer fallows and breaking after back setting, perfectly clean of weeds up to fall.

-Mr. W. H. Riddon, of St. Thomas, representing the Erie Iron Works, is in the city on business, and reports that business in his line, hardware, is all that one could desire.

-Mr. Rowley, who works Judd Smith's farm near the city, brought a sample of green peas to the Bulletin office yesterday that when headed out were five feet long. The sample was taken indiscriminately from a field of fifteen acres.

-A number of contractors were up before Police Magistrate Cowan last evening for violating Bylaw No. 273, which forbids obstructing the street with building material. Each was fined one dollar and costs, or as the magistrate naively remarked, "ten days."

-Messrs. Mr. Groos says that the time of the fair was too early to make an exhibit, but now he is prepared to make one that will astonish even the citizens of Edmonton. The show will be at the Rosery, Jasper avenue.

-Mr. R. Macleod, who drives the Strathcona Brewery company's wagon had an exciting experience yesterday. While attempting to board the ferry to cross over to Strathcona his team plunged into the river and team, wagon and driver, were submerged for a time. Mr. Macleod got out safely, but it was with much difficulty the horses were rescued. One horse was carried 20 rods down the river.

-Calgary Albertian: Yesterday afternoon Sgt. Major Belcher, who has been a member of the police force for about seventy years, received his commission and now will be known as Inspector Belcher. He will be transferred to Macleod as inspector of that division. The appointment is a very popular one. ## THE BEEF CATTLE INDUSTRY

After stating that there may or may not be a combine among exporters of dead beef the Calgary Herald says:

"In the shipment of cattle to the United Kingdom there seems to be what might be construed into a monopoly. The most important shipments are said to be in the joint control of 'P. Burns and company and Gordon Ironsides. The Ironsides company is understood to have committed the purchase of stock in this country to 'P. Burns and company. The two firms 'it is said, have a mutual understand- ing. If this is true a monopoly has been created, and there may be field for investigation."

The strength of this possibility however is weakened by the statement that "Under certain circumstances a monopoly might be justified. The shipment of cattle to England is perhaps not as lucrative as outsiders imagine. A seven thousand mile journey by land and sea is not an unimportant factor in the trade which Alberta ranchers and shippers are destined to have in Europe. Men who have attempted to make a success of the shipment of live stock to the old country recognize that the odds are against success. An old-time shipper told the Herald this morning that he believed firmly that scarcely 3 per cent. of those who tried the business made it pay. The shipping of live stock in this country has been marked by a weeding process. Only the wealthiest have survived and they 'only at a great sacrifice.'"

It will be news to many to learn from the Herald that: "The shipment of live stock is not paying the C.P.R. today. And yet the freight tariff is as high as it can stand still main- taining the trade."

Summarizing an interview the Herald says: "A Calgary merchant who has made a life study of the beef business, in an interview with the Herald, stated that it was his im- pression that the shipment of live stock would soon give way to the shipment of dead meat. He foresaw a great market opening up in Spain, France and Germany for the Canadian products. In Germany fresh meat sells at 50 cents a pound, and the market is most remunerative. The favored nations tariff is hurting Canadian trade with Germany at present. Canada's preferential policy with regard to Britain is somewhat costly."

The tenor of the Herald article is far from reassuring. After almost persuading itself that there is a combine in the live cattle export business it advances the difficulties of the trade as a justification for a monopoly, rather unnecessarily whitewashes the C.P.R. for its rates on live cattle and suggests the development of the dead beef industry as a remedy for the situation.

With the notion that the difficulties in shipping live cattle justify the formation of a combine we do not agree. To admit this is to admit that the producer must not only lose by the unavoidable lowering of prices due to long shipments of produce but must also submit to sell his products in a market in which there is only one buyer. If in any class of commerce combines are harmful it is surely in those from which the producer naturally receives least for his products. When the producer's profits are necessarily lowest it is surely the greatest injustice to further impoverish him by the extortions of a combine. That the percentage of failures is high in such branches of trade is the misfortune of the trade but not the fault of the producer and why should the latter be taxed to make amends for the trader's lack of judgment, ability or capital? That "only the wealthiest" cattle dealers have survived and they at "great sacrifice" scarcely accords with the common facts that the wealthy dealers of today were poor men twenty years ago.

If business difficulties justify a beef combine why not combines in all other branches of trade when similarly serious difficulties exist? And from this general excuse what branch of business is exempt?

As for the C.P.R. shipping cattle without profit it certainly would be novel to discover one class of freight on which this company does not earn dividends. But the present question is the alleged beef combine, not the freight rates, and why this, unnecessary protestation should be interjected is not clear, save to forestall anticipated criticism.

The development of the packing industry holds great promise for the beef growers of the west. But if as is alleged, a combine exists in this industry also how will the extension of the packing business relieve the producer from the supposed manipulations of the exporter, especially when packer and exporter are one? This supposed remedy may not be a red herring but it looks suspiciously like one and should not and will not detract public attention from the point of the beef investigation—whether or not there is a combine among the exporter or packers of western beef, or both.

CURRENT COMMENT

Russell Sage left instructions that his body be interred in a three ton steel coffin lest some one might steal steel what people really thought of him he would have known how groundless were his fears. Most people would not want him around the place alive, much less dead.

The Toronto Globe reproduces as the "Calgary Board of Trade," a cut of the delegates to the boards of trade convention in Edmonton last June. To suggest that four dozen such good looking chaps could be found in one Alberta town was doubtless a compliment to the Province, but even so it cannot be allowed to pass. To suggest that they could be found in Calgary—well the Globe is not well acquainted in Calgary. That bunch was the pick of the West and a dozen jealous rivals of the southern city will rise to claim their contributions to the galaxy.

At the same ratio of increase for the next five years 40,000 will be the population of Edmonton in 1911.

Is there any reason to suppose the same ratio of increase will be kept up? WE HAVE ONLY BEGUN TO GROW. Railroads are just beginning to come; manufacturers are just beginning to realize the splendid opportunities there are in this city and whole-salers are just awaking to the fact that here is a fine distributing centre. We have only been playing at coal mining, and farming in the surrounding district is practically only in its infancy. In five years these industries will all have made gigantic strides, and there is every reason to suppose that the population will keep pace. HOW DOES THIS AFFECT YOU?

Are you going to stand still, or are you going to keep up in the race? Lots which look some distance out to-day will be close in, in five years. They cost from $100 to $200 to-day; they will be worth $1000 then. Are you going to get your share of the advance? You cannot get it by standing aside and looking on. ## Western Items

Albertian—J. J. McHugh brought in 40 head of handsome heavy draft horses from his ranch last Thursday and sold them the following day. The whole bunch go to Saskatoon. At present there is a great demand for heavy draft horses and good roadsters in this city. There are over three hundred livery horses in Calgary. This is remarkable for a town of this size.

Albertian—Pincher Creek citizens by a vote of 61 to 8 decided to loan M. McDonald $10,000 for the purpose of building a mill and elevator. The work will be started at once.

Olds Gazette—A most deplorable accident occurred on Tuesday morning to little Nelson Rands, the six-year-old son of George Rands. It appears that the little fellow got in front of the cutter bar of the mower, which was being operated by his elder brother, the sickle cutting into the ankle joint. The boy was brought to town and is now being treated in the Silverton hospital. The best results that can possibly be expected is a stiff ankle.

Cranbrook Herald—There is a growing tendency on the part of one good friend Mott, of the Fernie Ledger, to dictate the editorial utterances of the Herald and other papers in the district. After nearly a quarter of a century newspaper work we have found that dictating the editorial policy of one's own paper is sufficient responsibility for one newspaper man, unless he be a new hand at the business.

Macleod Advance—The country never looked better said a caller at our office the other day. If, he went on, we had the same amount of moisture every year that we have had this season, land in any part of Alberta would be worth $100 an acre.

Leduc Enterprise—Quite a common sight these days are the caravans and Red River carts of the incoming settlers. One outfit passed through town last week, having journeyed all the way from Denver, U.S.A. in this primitive mode.

Stettler Independent—The Alberta Pacific Elevator Co. will commence the erection of their elevators immediately upon the arrival of the first installment of lumber, five cars of which are now on the way and are daily expected to arrive. It is rumored two other elevator companies are contemplating building in time to receive this year's crop.

High River Times—The question of municipal ownership of an electric light plant was considered at the last meeting of the council, and from all appearances we will have an opportunity of voting for or against a by-law for a municipal owned electric plant. Mr. Lane has agreed to dispose of his interests in the present plant at a reasonable figure, and it is anticipated no opposition will be made, out that ere the long winter nights approach we will have an improved electric lights all over the town.

The Macleod board of trade has passed the following resolutions: Resolved that the cheap rates for harvest excursions from the east be extended to the province of Alberta.
Resolved that this board of trade take action to unite with other boards in southern Alberta to induce a railway system competitive to the C.P.R. to enter this section of the province.

The Coming Country

His face, bronzed with exposure and outdoor life, but the very picture of rugged health, J. S. Sinclair, Earl of Cathness, London, Eng., formerly of Dakota, where he was one of the largest land owners of the state, has just returned from an extended trip through the Peace River country, in Canada, says the Evening Times, of Grand Forks, N. D. His trip was extended over a period since the middle of last March, and during that time the well-known Scotman has been roughing it, guide and sleeping at night out under the vaulted skies, with only the sounds of nature to interfere with his slumbers.

The country northwest of Edmonton was travelled for nearly one thousand miles, the prospector penetrating far into the territory not as yet even surveyed and where the population is half-breed and Indians, living the primitive life of the savage, and gaining a livelihood hunting, fishing and trapping game, which is disposed of to the traders and shipped to eastern markets.

The breeds occupy rude huts, in the winter and teepees in the summer and are a thriffling race, perfectly contented.

The fish industry of the far north country is an important one. Holes are made in the winter through the ice of the lakes and rivers which the fisherman with fish and the supply seems inexhaustible. The very finest whitefish are taken in this manner, and the same find a ready market in the east, the natives hauling their catch to Edmonton by sleigh, and from there the fish are shipped on to the east, where top notch prices are paid for them.

The Hudson's Bay company has posts at different points in the northwest and trappers find a ready market for the pelts of lynx, mink, bear, fox, and other fur-bearing animals which are taken in the country north of Edmonton.

The country is fairly alive with wild ducks and geese, and Mr. Sinclair recalls seeing several flocks of beautiful white swans on different occasions, flying majestically through the air or sailing majestically upon the lakes. Because of the amount of trapping going on the game is becoming more scarce, but the wooded districts are still well populated with animals. Moose and caribou are seen in great numbers and frequent runs near the streams where it is no rare thing to see a slain by hunters who have overlooked the game laws and to whom open season or closed season has little significance.

Mr. Sinclair is of the opinion that the Canadian northwest is the coming country. While the railroads are not as yet tapping the country which he has explored in his recent trip, he believes it will not be long before they do so and that settlers will flock into that section in numbers, as the soil is fertile and the natural advantages are unexcelled. The rivers and lakes will aid in the transportation of products and these many natural waterways can be and now are being used as auxiliaries to the railroads.

There has been an abundance of rain in the section travelled by Mr. Sinclair and crops are looking excellent, bidding fair to be a bountiful harvest. The prices of land are high, near and this side of Edmonton, but in the country north there is an excellent opportunity for investment, and the time is coming, in the opinion of the traveller mentioned in this article, when the values will advance rapidly, as the railroads tap the country.

Mr. Sinclair will remain in Grand Forks for a time and may later make a trip to the Canadian country again, as he has enjoyed his outing and the novelty of the trip. He is a man of means and is making these journeys more for recreation than for anything else, though he expects to invest in lands of the section visited.

Conditions in Cobalt

The Winnipeg Telegram publishes the following interview with R. J. Trethewey formerly owner of the street railway franchise and well known in Edmonton.

R. J. Trethewey, one of the "silver kings" of Cobalt, Ont., and joint owner of the Trethewey mine there, now registered at the Empire hotel, yesterday stated to a Telegram reporter the conditions now prevailing in the celebrated mining camp.

"Things at present are rather quiet at Cobalt," said Mr. Trethewey, "owing to the fact that the six largest mines in the district, namely the Thimmons, Trethewey, University, Foster, Drummond and Hudson's Bay have suspended shipment of ore, pending an experience in the testing of a new smelter in Hamilton, Ont. If the working of this smelter proves successful $750,000 to $1,000,000 will be expended in perfecting the plant, which will be operated by the joint companies. If not successful the plant will be abandoned. The danger of failure rests in the difficulty of treating high grade silver on account of its volatilization.

"The objection to carry the raw ore over the boundary line into the United States lies in the fact that the producers receive no remuneration from the by-products which are confiscated. The by-products, oxide, nickle and arsenic, produce respectively per pound 17 per cent., 3 to 7 per cent. and 60 per cent. of pure silver, valued at $2 to $250, and lead to 13-4. One can readily understand the saving that would result from the success of the plan. The Ontario government has adopted a rather vacillating policy in regard to this matter but beyond recommending a site to a foreign company have done nothing.

Mr. Trethewey on being asked if reports regarding silver outputs were exaggerated said that reports were very conservative. Nominating camps have ever had in sight the vast quantity of ore that Cobalt has, he sighted as an example, the Trethewey property. Seven veins that average four inches in width have been proved to a depth of 165 feet by sinking a working shaft. On the Thimmons property by the same process sixteen veins four to six inches in width proven to a depth of 250 feet. On the Rothchild property a vein was uncovered some three weeks ago, measuring in places 11-4 inches in width, solid pyrite.

"Are American capitalists acquiring many rich claims?" he was asked.

"During the early history of the camp the Nipissing company bought 900 acres from locators, which now exhibit twenty-seven to thirty inch veins, and have shipped forty-two carloads up to March 1 last. American capitalists do not control the bulk of the claims. With but one or two exceptions Canadian control largest claims."

"Are mining regulations satisfactory to operators?"

"Yes," said Mr. Trethewey, "eminently so, there is universal approval of Ontario government's mining laws. The administration of law and order is splendid. I think that Cobalt camp is the quietest and most peaceful in America, and my experience includes Cripple Creek, British Columbia mining camps, and Lake Superior. The provincial police exercise perfect control and there is no fear of lawlessness."

Mr. Trethewey produced a nugget of antimonial silver, about the size of a man's fist, 99 per cent pure and valued at $36, also specimens of calcite and Cobalt bloom, containing respectively 7 per cent and 45 per cent. The town of Cobalt, Mr. Trethewey states has grown very rapidly, the population being near the 5,000 mark.

FRAUDS OF AMERICAN PACKERS
"Full details regarding the nature and origin of the samples examined are given in the tabulated statement appended to this report. Since its completion, however, our attention has been called to the number for June, 1906, of the monthly bulletin of the state board of health of Massachusetts in which is a report on canned meats with the following statement: 'In general it may be said that the results are favorable to the manufacturers, both in the west and in the east; but certain preparations used in the manufacture involving comminution or grinding, are very largely fraudulent in character. In that they are not what they purport to be. These preparations include the various potted tongues, chicken, beef and ham, and devilled chicken, turkey, ham and tongue.' Some of them are said to contain corn meal, for which no search was made in the samples described in this report. Since its preparation is desired with all possible dispatch, I do not propose to delay it longer, but intend to refer to the subject of such adulterated potted goods in a future report."

There has been an abundance of rain in the section travelled by Mr. Sinclair and crops are looking excellent, bidding fair to be a bountiful harvest. The prices of land are high, near and this side of Edmonton, but in the country north there is an excellent opportunity for investment, and the time is coming, in the opinion of the traveller mentioned in this article, when the values will advance rapidly, as the railroads tap the country.

Mr. Sinclair will remain in Grand Forks for a time and may later make a trip to the Canadian country again, as he has enjoyed his outing and the novelty of the trip. He is a man of means and is making these journeys more for recreation than for anything else, though he expects to invest in lands of the section visited.

The One Right Steel Plate Range

Until we found out just the right way to use asbestos to keep the heat in a cooking range where it must cook the food instead of cooking the cook, every steel-plate range kept the kitchen broiling-hot. This range is a cool range—the top shield and lining is thick asbestos, so the heat stays inside the range and keeps evenly hot. Food is better cooked, quicker cooked and cooked for less fuel-cost.

The Building of An Empire

The leading article in "Success" Magazine of New York for August is one on the Canadian North-West, called "Conquering the Last Frontier," by Samuel Merwin, and gives a graphic description of how an empire is here being built. Part I of the article, entitled "Our Last Empire" follows in part:

Definition number seven, in Webster's unabridged, of the transitive verb, "to lose," reads: "To fail to obtain or enjoy; to fail to gain or win." Twenty-five years ago Canada was young and difficult. To-day she is strong, rich, and a little proud. Then, had we thought it worth while to make advances, it is difficult to say that might or might not have taken place. Now, there are half a million American settlers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and Alberta, and if you should ask them, you would find that they are not at all interested in the annexation question. Things run rather better here, they say, "than in the States. The administration of justice is much more satisfactory. We see no advantage in changing."

If you have ever felt, as I rather fancy you have, that it is in you to explore strange new countries, you will find that you would not hesitate very long between going into something in the dry goods way and going into something in the empire-building way, you will do well to open the atlas to the map of North America, and let loose your imagination in the splendidly romantic conquest of that Far North-West which we know very little about, but which we shall, willy nilly, learn a good deal about before "Jim" Hill, and the new Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern, and the Canadian Pacific and the Dominion Government, get through with it. They are building—while you wait—an empire with which, we of these States, shall very shortly have to reckon.

It is the first time an empire was ever built in just this way. The rifle has no place in the undertaking. Thanks to the century-long influence of the Hudson's Bay Company, the Indians and half-breeds are docile. Thanks to the Anglo-Saxon sense of order, and to the Royal North-West Mounted Police, there are few or none of those "bad men" who have infested our frontiers. The conquering army is made up of farmers and cowboys and sheep and horses and plows and harvesting machines. The advance skirmishers, if you could see them at work, are hardly young men in rough clothes who carry transits and levels, and travel with pack horses or, in the depth of the winter, with pack dogs.

It is these hardy young men of the transit in whom we are most interested here. The farmer makes excellent foundation material—the best there is, in fact, but like certain of the others of us he is neither very exciting nor very decorative. In small parties for reconnaissance work, in large parties for survey work, scattered over three thousand miles for construction work, the engineers are blazing the steel trail across the wilderness. Before many of them lies hardship, perhaps starvation. For the larger survey parties provisions are freighted out by Indians and coaxed where expert woodsmen can find them. But the small reconnaissance parties, plunging into the north-western mountains for six months at a time, can carry only a few staples. When gun and rod fail, they must eat dog. In winter—and winter is winter up there—they must roll up in a blanket or two and sleep under the stars. A Canadian Pacific engineer, poor Vance, was frozen to death west of Battleford two winters ago. I know an engineer who has slept under canvas when the camp thermometer registered fifty-six below zero. I know another engineer who thinks little, at forty below, of rolling up in a single Hudson Bay blanket on the snow. In summer this game country is hot, and, in places, dusty, and along the river bottoms the insect pests are all but unbearable. The minute and tedious work of surveying and map-making is relieved only by intervals of pushing through rough country, of building rafts in order to ferry supplies, instruments, and records across rivers, of cutting a way for pack horses through tangled vinefalls, or in winter, of "breaking trail" for the dogs.

By way of recompense for this work the engineer, equipped with technical training and with years of hard experience, shares with the college professor the distinction of being the most highly underpaid of brain workers. A fat travelling salesman with a grin, a good story or two, and a fund of quotable grammar, will draw from twice to ten times the salary.

And the curious thing is that they love the life, these lean, youngish men with the clear heads and the steady bodies. They will perhaps try to make you think they don't. They are a silent lot, as becomes men who pass their years in the wilderness or on the lonely, wind-swept prairies, and they are working for corporations and directors whose business ears are not attuned to the call of the wild. But if you could drop into the Alberta Hotel at Edmonton, on some mild spring evening, and have a look at the assistant engineers and the instrument men who are booked to disappear toward the Rockies within a day or two, for some eight, or ten months, you would see what I mean. The undying spirit of adventure is in their eyes; the half-conscious swagger of the soldier of fortune is in their stride. The same burning desire that drove Stanley back to Africa, that drives the soldier to the wars, or the sailor to the sea, is sending these men back to the wilderness.

The spending out of hand of a hundred millions or so for railroad building through a new land obviously means something. Three new trunk lines are already under construction in Western Canada. Before long we shall be bearing a good deal about the foresight and the unflinching courage of the men who are standing back of these huge undertakings. But when you see this sort of thing in the papers, smile. A man would show about as much foresight in staking out a claim in the bullion room at the mint. In Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta Provinces there are more than two hundred thousand square miles of prairie land, most of it rich black loam, ready cleared for the plow. As much again awaits clearing. In the mountains are minerals and timber. Settlers are pouring in on every train to occupy this vast region. Towns and grain warehouses are springing up over night. Imagine the Mississippi and Missouri Valleys to settle over again under modern conditions! Imagine anything you like, and you will probably be within the facts.

It is nothing unusual for these prairies to yield a general average of 25 bushels of wheat to the acre, and 40 bushels of oats. Much of the wheat is of a higher grade than any now raised in our West, and it is frequently mixed with ours to bring it up to standard. No, the wonder is that the pompous gentlemen in the tall hats didn't get their railroads through ten years ago.

No, the engineer is our man. Of the two types, the man who is risking other people's money is neither so picturesque nor so interesting as the man who is risking his life. It is the engineer who is conquering this last, and perhaps greatest, frontier.

Edmonton is the jumping-off place for all North-Western Canada, the place where town and wilderness strike hands. Here in Washington Square, the prosperous little city on the Upper Saskatchewan seems even farther away than its accredited 2,500 miles. It is 800 miles west of Winnipeg, and it is some little way north of that fifty-third parallel, beyond which, if one is to believe Mr. Rex Beach, the laws of God and man don't work very well. If one were to attempt the somewhat hazardous feat of walking the east from Edmonton, it would be found necessary to swim the upper waters of Hudson Bay before fetching up on the coast of Labrador. All this sounds very remote and inaccessible. It suggests rather the pastoral charms of Greenland than the pastoral charms of an Iowa or an Illinois; and if carried away from New York, lunched inside a prosaic waistcoat, what I took to be the emotions of the explorer, my ignorance was not. I prefer to think, unique.

Edmonton is a city of banks and a sound of trade, of department stores, a block long and a good many stories high; of paved streets and brick and stone buildings; of well-to-do men in frock coats or in trim riding breeches and puttees; of prettily-gowned women; of the latest thing in automobiles; of clubs, churches, and polo grounds. All this speaks of the life of today. But jostling by the prosperous merchant or the English "youngster" is the half-bred in Stetson hat and silk-embroidered gaiters, or the squaw with purple hair straitened to one shoulder. The contrast, to one who has surrendered much of himself to the effete influence of our Atlantic States, is somewhat bewildering. One evening I strolled to the brink of the bluff and tried to straiten it out. Edmonton was the frontier; I knew that. But maps, with great "unexplored" patches on them, are not so convincing as they might be when one is in the living presence of chills, and banks, and churches, and automobiles. Before me was the mile-wide valley, cut out square and deep from the yellow earth. The smoke from the lower town, thickened by a May mist, filled the valley to the brim, and in the moonlight it was luminous and faintly purple. Through this veil glinted the silver Saskatchewan; as it wound its leisurely way toward Hudson Bay. It was all very serene and very charming. At this moment it seemed, after all, as if I might be pretty close to those unexplored blank spaces. I should have liked to let my thoughts float off downstream through the mist to encounter the wild adventures of frontier times; but even if they could have slipped easily under the railroad bridge, they would have come up short against the very business-like log boom just below.

The wild days are almost over with the frontier is losing ground every day. In the trading stores in Edmonton, the half-breeds sit, and smoke and talk of the old days when the steamboats ran on the Saskatchewan. Men talk that way of the rotting wharves at Portsmouth of the ancient, faded glories of the Spanish main. When I heard this plaint, from the lips of a whimsical old trader, I gave up my hope of finding a frontier. I surrendered to the spirit of Jasper street, with its electric lights and its automobiles. I merely shook a listless head when a talkative young man put the age-old question, "What's your line?" So he was here, too! Behind a certain prosaic waistcoat, a spark laid flickered out. After the engineer, the travelling man; after the travelling man, the steam plow; after the steam plow, the grand piano; that is the way they build up empires today.

Strathcona Member

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Dr. W. McIntyre, M. P. of Strathcona arrived in the city last night on his way west from Ottawa. He was detained at the capital pending the decision of the Government in regard to the crossing of the G.T.P. over this North Saskatchewan. The company petitioned to make the crossing at Clover Bar, some nine miles from Strathcona and Dr. McIntyre, in the interests of his constituents put up a strong fight to fix the location between Strathcona and Edmonton. The decision, however, designated Clover Bar as the point of crossing. Dr. McIntyre was, of course, somewhat disappointed over the outcome, but he says that by means of the railway commission both the G. T. P. and the C. N. R. can secure running rights over the new C. P. R. bridge now under construction and thus give Strathcona greatly increased transportation facilities.

Speaking of the recent session Dr. McIntyre said it could be termed a scandal session. The opposition apparently thought the new Minister of the Interior a legitimate target. Mr. Oliver, however, had emerged from the storm in a very much stronger position than before the session began. He was to leave in August for England when he would thoroughly investigate the charges made in regard to the immigration office and if any changes were found necessary they would be made. The uproar made in regard to the immigration office had not in the least affected the administration. The opposition had had the advantage of two officials warring bitterly against one another with one of them playing into their hands, but they had not succeeded in hurting the administration one iota.

In regard to the passing of the Lord's Day Act, Dr. McIntyre said that it provided a striking instance of the strength of character possessed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The bill was passed in opposition to the personal wishes of the greater portion of the residents of Quebec. Sir Wilfrid had been unwavering in his attitude, maintaining his proud reputation as a statesman who legislated not for his own province or race, but for the whole of Canada.

Strathcona

Strathcona, Aug. 3.—Dr. J. C. Wainright was at Spruce Grove on business today. Wm. Purdy, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., left town Wednesday afternoon en route for home. Mr. Purdy has been in the west for about three months and returns east mainly on account of sickness in his family. He expects to return to the west in the near future. Messrs. Jelley and McGrath were in town today. They are ex-business men of Qu'Appelle, Sask., and have come west to look up a suitable site to again go into business. They came west via the Canadian Northern and speak very favorably of crops in the Qu'Appelle district and also on their route west. Mr. Jelley is an old schoolmaster of Alderman Cowles and feels at home in Strathcona.

Dr. H. Dresser left town Wednesday afternoon en route for Harvard University, where he purposes taking a postgraduate course in dental surgery. He will return on the completion of his course.

A. J. Baines, of the H. E. Sanderson real estate staff, is building a fine cottage on the Edmonton road in the north eastern part of the town. The Presbyterian Sunday school picnic was held on Walters' list this afternoon, while the Methodists held theirs this afternoon on the agricultural grounds.

A large number of our young citizens went this morning on a picnic outing to Cooking Lake. Mr. Morrison, a farmer from near Ottawa, is here for the benefit of his health and also to look over the province and invest some of his surplus money here. He reports fair average crops in Ontario.

A new tower is being erected on the Catholic church here, while the interior is to be finished, renovated and beautified. Contractor Page, of Edmonton, has charge of the work.

Excavation work has already commenced on the new brick separate school adjacent to the present school, Lumden avenue. Bricks are also being drawn, ready for the construction work, which is under the supervision of Contractor Congdon.

W. E. Jaffrey came into town last evening from Los Angeles, California. Mr. Jaffrey is waiting to be joined by a companion, and together they hope to secure homesteads and become permanent settlers here.

The town ladies are now canvassing for funds to aid them in holding a monster picnic in the near future in aid of the town hospital.

Mr. Smith, who keeps a large stock of second hand and also new goods, is vacating his present premises on Whyte avenue east, near the Douglas book store, and moving into the old Plaiddealer office, Whyte avenue east. Mr. Smith is one of the old timers of Strathcona.

TO CONTRACTORS
Tenders are invited for the erection of a brick residence on Second street. Plans and specifications may be seen at the offices of Johnson, Calderston & Lines, architects, 119 Jasper avenue. Tenders to be sent in on or before Tuesday 7th August.

SERIOUS CHARGE OF FRAUD

Charged with obtaining $5000 under false pretences, from John Morris, a traveller from Winnipeg, who has been staying at the Alberta for the past three weeks, was placed under arrest on Wednesday. Yesterday afternoon he stood trial in the police court before Magistrate Wade. Mr. Biggar conducted the prosecution, Mr. Newell appearing for the defence. Mr. Biggar asked for an adjournment as he had a witness coming from Winnipeg. Mr. Newell asked that the prisoner be given bail, but Magistrate Wade refused to hear the evidence of the complainant before giving an adjournment and allowing bail.

Mr. Morris, in giving his evidence, said he had met Mehrling some weeks ago in the Alberta Hotel. Mehrling was introduced to Morris as the western manager of the Donald Fraser Co., Winnipeg, and also a partner in the firm. He told Morris that the company was thinking of establishing a branch warehouse in Edmonton, in which would be installed upwards of $70,000 of stock. He offered Mr. Morris the management of the new warehouse, and said he intended to go to his farm at the Pembina and take things easy. Morris told Mehrling he would put $5000 into the business, and if his investments turned out well, would add $5,000 more. The next day the two men went to look at some property upon which to erect the new warehouse. Mr. Morris showed Mehrling Lot 152, Block 7, H. B. R., the price of which was $1,000 cash. Mehrling also looked at Lot 115 in the same block, which he wanted for private investment. The price was $2000 down, balance on terms. Mehrling said he would take both lots. Morris' firm purchased Lot 115, paying over $1000 down, and secured the other lot by a payment of $10. The next morning when Mehrling was in Morris' office, Morris introduced him to the owners of the lot. Mehrling afterwards told Morris that he was going to take a man in England named Major Earl, for money, who, he said, was a brother-in-law of his, who had $40,000 lying idle.

The same day Morris accompanied Mehrling to the Union Bank to make arrangements about the draft. Morris introduced Mehrling to Mr. Anderson, the manager, and Mehrling told him his plans regarding the new branch warehouse. Mr. Anderson made out a draft on the Donald Fraser Co. As they were leaving, Mehrling said, "This makes it no better. I need money now." They returned to Mr. Anderson, who did not see his way clear to making a loan to Mehrling. Mr. Morris then made out a cheque on his own account for $2000 and gave it to Mehrling, who cashed it. Morris grew slightly suspicious, but Mehrling reassured him by saying he had $20,000 in the Donald Fraser Co.

The next day Mehrling told Morris he had closed a deal for the Gully farm for $1000. In the cross-examination Mr. Morris acknowledged signing a receipt for a draft for $4000 at the bank. That was, he supposed, as security for his $2000. He had endorsed the draft and was to let the bank know when to send it away, but Mehrling asked him to hold it as he would make some other arrangement to pay the loan. Mr. Morris said that Mehrling had called Major Earl for $10,000 but had never received an answer. He said since lending Mehrling the money he had received information that Mehrling was not the western manager of the Donald Fraser Co., and had not been with that firm for the past ten days. The case was adjourned until the 9th of August.

Sports

It was a joyful and expectant crowd that approached the entrance to the baseball grounds last evening. They had all read about the big team that was coming, the Anacostias from Seattle, and they all were smiles of pleasant anticipation as they came in through the high board fence, expecting to see on the other side the Yankee visitors lined up in their baseball togs. But the Anacostias weren't there.

The team had missed the train in Calgary in the morning so the ticket boys at the gate told the crowd, and their game was off. But the Capitals did not want to disappoint their friends, and turn them away without giving them a chance to spend their money, so they sent a hurry call to Strathcona, and when the crowd came in at the gate they saw, not a strange team, but a bunch of men in grey, who they at once recognized.

It was an evil day for Strathcona. The game lasted only innings. At the end nobody really knew what the score was, as the man at the tally board got a sore arm about the fifth and had to quit. The Capitals' score ran up higher than the grand stand, and Seena colors trailed in the dust of the diamond. A small boy said the score was 10-2, but nobody would believe him.

"Wild Bill" Stetley thought it was a big joke, and tried to try Garrison, the umpire.

The Seena boys thought they would get away with the Capitals when Allen, the first to bat, made a home run on an error of Gleason and Dobson. They also had a new man who they thought could do things, and they put him in to pitch for the 1st innings. He was wild, and the Caps walked in with five runs during his term.

Allen went in the box afterwards, at the earnest request of the crowd, and it was better. The errors made by Strathcona's infield were too numerous to mention. Clifford Toll, a junior, who was out at left field for Strathcona, made some really pretty catches. Strathcona scored another in the fourth and after that the crowd lost interest.

The batteries were: Vining and Dodge; Allen and Regan.
